Application/Control Number: 10/049,970

Art Unit: 1623

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: Page 1 of the specification fails to state that the instant application is a 371 of PCT/JP00/05415.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for Streptomyces sp. MK730-62F2, does not reasonably provide enablement for the genus Streptomyces. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. The genus Streptomyces encompasses an indefinite number of strains. Applicant has not provided any guidance of how to choose a strain capable of producing the desired compounds. It would take an undue amount of experimentation to determine said strain.

Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The term "general" (claims 1-7, 9 and 11) is superfluous.

The term "novel" (claim 11) is superfluous.

Claims 9 and 10 are substantial duplicates.

The deposit information in claims 8 and 11 is impoper.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Application/Control Number: 10/049,970

Art Unit: 1623

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by applicant's admittance on page 24 of the specification.

The claimed strain is a product of nature as admitted on page 24, lines 7-14 of the specification.

Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Umezawa wt al (U.S. Patent No. 4,699,879) or Kimura et al (Agric. Biol. Chem. 53(7) 18111815 (1989).

Umezawa et al disclose Streptomyces sp. (FERM P-7218) (column 9, Example 1).

Kimura et al discloses Streptomyces sp. which produces similar antibiotics.

Application/Control Number: 10/049,970

Art Unit: 1623

The claimed strain is anticipated by the cited art. In addition, if there are any differences between the claimed strain and the prior art strains, the differences would appear to be minor in nature and the claimed strain, which falls within the scope of the prior art strains, would have been prima facie obvious from the said references' disclosures to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the instant invention was made.
